

CAPSULE

Dr. Grafton M. Bosley was initially responsible for the residential development of west Towson. He was a prominent land owner who is especially noted for having donated part of his estate for the site of the Court House and Jail in 1853. By 1899, Bosley Avenue, Allegheny Avenue, W. Pennsylvania Avenue, W. Chesapeake Avenue, Highland Avenue, and later Central Avenue were laid out for accessibility to lots ready for public development. Although he died in 1901 before much development took place, Dr. Bosley was represented by his trustees who continued to administer his land.

Presently, areas such as west Towson are seeing the commercial growth of central Towson slowly creeping into their own neighborhood. However, very few high rises are seen here (existing only on two border areas) and many commercial alterations have been sensitive to the residential quality home owners are hoping to maintain.

This house has remained residential and contains most of its original character. Many of the lots in the Bosley estate were sold unimproved, however, this house is an example of one built earlier than most under the direction of the trustees of the Bosley estate and sold several years later.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Exterior Only:

Occupying the southwest corner of Allegheny and Central Avenues stands this nearly square frame building. The two story with attic structure measures a large two bays wide by two bays deep, and rests on a stone foundation. This foundation has a beaded grouting. The walls are covered with asbestos shingles which are rippled on the edges, and are topped with a slate hipped roof. The deep eaves of this roof have a wide tongue-and-groove soffit.

The fenestration of the north or main facade is somewhat irregular in size. The west bay of the first level contains the entranceway, with the east bay having a polygonal bay window. The central window is a 9/1 sash, while the two side windows are a narrower 4/1 sash.

A single story porch is covered with a hipped roof. Supporting this roof are wide, full length square columns which are covered with the same asbestos shingle. The porch is partially enclosed with a railing.

The second level contains a 4/1 sash window in each bay.

The roof accentuates the two bay symmetry by having a slate hipped roof dormer in each bay. Each one is lighted by a pair of small windows. Most interesting is the fact that the outer sides of the dormers' roofs meet with the east and west slopes of the main roof.

Also seen on this facade is the centrally located brick, capped chimney.

The east facade displays regular 9/1 sash fenestration with the exception of a polygonal bay window in the south bay of the first level. A slate hipped-shaped hood covers the window. The central window is 9/1 sash, however, the two side windows are a very narrow 6/1 sash (the six lights being in pairs of two, vertically).

The roof, unlike the north facade, has a wider centrally located hipped-roof dormer with a larger pair of windows.

A single story frame addition resting on stone piers occupies three-quarters of the south facade, leaving only the easternmost portion of the main block exposed. This addition has the same shingle covering as the main block, has a pair of 9/1 sash windows and an entrance door, and is topped with a hipped roof. This roof is covered with asphalt tile shingles.

The cellar has a stone bulk head entrance in the east bay.

The first level of this end is windowless. The second level has a centrally located 4/1 sash window in addition to the regular fenestration.

The roof has a centrally located hipped-roof dormer which is equal in appearance to the dormers on the north facade.

A brick chimney pierces the main roof West of the dormer.

The fenestration of the west facade is most irregular.

The north bays have a regular 9/1 sash. However, the central portion of the facade is occupied by a swell front which contains small double casements on each level. The southernmost bays have a smaller 6/1 sash window.

The wide dormer of the east facade is repeated here and is vented by 1/1 sash windows.
